

IN THE CLAIMS

13. (Currently amended)      A decryption device for use in a system according to any of claims 7-12, the device comprising sensor means for sensing an encrypted image and a key identification, key selection means for selecting a key on the basis of the sensed key identification, decryption means for decrypting a sensed encrypted image using the selected key, and display means for displaying a decrypted image.